SANFORD EXPLAINS.

HE IS WORKING IN THE INTEREST OF THE DEAR PEOPLE.

He Asserts That He Wouldn't Do a Thing To a Republican Even If He Got a First-Class Opportunity—Considers Himself Maligned and Abused.

SACRAMENTO, February 7.—My attention has been called to a communication from Ukiah to The Beacon and also to an editorial in THE PRESS of January 29th, in which my actions regarding certain legislation have been impugned. It stated that I had introduced a bill entitled, "An act to punish old soldiers for having refused to vote for the boy orator." This is an injustice to me and misrepresents the objects of the notary bill I introduced. It is simply intended to put me in a false light and thus create a feeling against me among a certain class. No one holds a higher regard for those who fought in defense of our country than I, and my utterances upon public occasions will bear me out in this. The notary bill referred to was not intended to "slap the old soldiers in the face," but was intended to correct existing evils. The bill seems to be very popular among legislators, as the senate and house committees—of both of which a majority are Republicans—have recommended it unanimously. I enclose herewith a copy of assembly bill 68, and call your attention to my vote upon that measure. The bill referred to provides that "No fees or compensation shall be collected for services rendered in an affidavit or application relating to the securing of a pension, or for the payment of a pension voucher, or any matters relating thereto, nor filing, nor swearing to any claim or demand against any county in this state." The journal shows that I voted for this bill. Now, anyone can see that I have been grossly misrepresented in this matter. I do not expect that my vote upon political matters will please those who are politically opposed to me, but upon matters of general legislation and for the public good, I do not wish to be maligned or misrepresented by people simply because they differ with me on political questions. Hoping that you will do me the justice of stating my position fairly, I am very truly,

J. B. SANFORD.

A Lively Case.

The case now being tried in Santa Rosa by Judge Mannon was productive of a side issue Wednesday evening, after the adjournment of court. A dispatch from that place says: The hotly contested legal battle between Davis & Son, San Francisco leather dealers, and Hurgren & Anderson, Santa Rosa tanners, was enlivened by a bout at fisticuffs today. The brief battle took place in the courthouse just after court had adjourned, and was between W. F. Davis and C. F. Russell, both of San Francisco. Davis was the agressor and the intervention of a deputy sheriff was all that spoiled a very pretty fight. Davis thought that Russell had cast reflections upon his father while upon the witness stand and lost no time after adjournment in resenting the alleged insult. He also enriched the exchequer of Sonoma county to the extent of $10 when brought before a justice of the peace this afternoon on a charge of battery, preferred by his late antagonist.

PASSING OF P. J. CUNNINGHAM

The Death of a Just and Righteous Citizen of Ukiah.

The death of Patrick J. Cunningham, at his residence near this city Wednesday morning, was a distinctive loss to the community. The deceased bore that highest of all encomiums, "an honest man." Mr. Cunningham had been suffering from Bright's disease for several years past, but was attacked by the insidious complaint in its acute form several days ago. Monday last the disease was complicated by an attack of pneumonia, which, in his weakened condition, the deceased was unable to resist. He had the most careful attention from an experienced physician and the best of nursing by a devoted family. Mr. Cunningham was born in Sligo, Ireland, on April 5, 1834. He came to the United States in 1848 and settled in Boston. For a period of five years he followed his trade of silversmith in the old Bay state. The spirit of adventure then moved him, and he came to California and settled in San Francisco. He remained in San Francisco for some years, working at his trade, and then purchased a farm near Windsor, Sonoma county. The location did not suit him, and he came to Mendocino county, bought a ranch here, and has been a resident of this valley ever since.

The deceased leaves a wife and large family of children. The funeral took place from the Catholic church at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

A Pleasant Gathering.

Miss Lilian Young entertained a few friends in a delightful manner at her home Wednesday evening. The winged hours fled swiftly and pleasantly by and at 11:30 o'clock the guests adjoined to the dining-room where a dainty collation awaited them. Shortly after the guests dispersed to their various homes, all voting Miss Lilian a charming hostess. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Young, Misses Mignon Mason, Perle Taylor, Etta Broback, Marie Hatch, Kate Held, Ethel Jamison, Elsie Overmeyer, Letha Abbay, Lilian Young, Messrs Emile Cerf, Charles Graham, Ed Hatch, Archie McClure, Charlie Owens, George Joyce, Charles Braughler, Arthur Young. M.

At the Opera House.

The entertainment given at the opera house Saturday evening for charitable purposes was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by those who went. The talent was local and the performance was distinctively one of merit. It would perhaps be invidious to particularize where all did so well. The entertainment was a success financially, about $60 having been realized, which will be used to relieve the want and suffering of the needy. The amateurs who so kindly gave their services in aid of the distressed are deserving of much credit.

Blew Out the Gas.

Dick Willits, a halfbreed from Round valley, went down to San Francisco last week as a witness in the Yates case. Dick had not been accustomed to the use of illuminating gas, so when he retired at the Ahlborn house, on Grant avenue, he put the light out as he had been accustomed to dousing the glim of a tallow dip—by blowing. When Dick awoke in the morning he found himself in the receiving hospital. He had a very close call, and escaped death from asphyxiation by the merest scratch.

A Great Curiosity.

The Point Arena Record has discovered a curiosity. It is a lamb covered with red and white spots. The end of the tail is white, then there is red, then white and so on until the nose is reached, which is black. The lamb with its spotted coat attracts considerable attention. THE PRESS suggests that the red part of the animal be given to John Ruddock for a wig, and the tail donated to the editor of The Dispatch, as a souvenir of where he is at since the November campaign.

A San Francisco stock-buyer bought 300 sheep from the McGuire & Gilbert ranch Tuesday and shipped them to San Francisco Wednesday.

Judge Mannon of Ukiah is among his friends while holding court in Sonoma county, says the Santa Rosa Republican. Many of our people know him personally and they all think a great deal of him. His victory in the last political campaign which put him on the superior bench in Mendocino county was highly pleasing to his friends here. He has the confidence of all who know him.

Tom Chase, who was painfully injured two weeks ago by the falling of his saddle-horse, is now up and around. It requires more than a fall from a horse to knock the Eden valley vaquero out. It is Mr. Chase's intention, as soon as he perfectly recovers from his recent accident, to offer himself as a projectile to be fired from the 10-inch rifle recently placed in position on the fortifications at the Presidio.

E. C. Rawles and Miss Mitto Blevins, both of Boonville, were married Saturday last at the residence of the bride's parents in that village. Both bride and groom are among the brightest of Mendocino's most popular school teachers. "Bob," as he has long been popularly known, is one of the foremost educators in the county, and his wife, who has been principal of the Pieta school, is one of the most charming young ladies. THE PRESS extends its heartiest congratulations. The happy couple left on a bridal tour to San Francisco immediately after the ceremony.

THE DEADLY KNIFE.

THE SILENT WITNESS OF A FRIGHTFUL CRIME.

The Weapon With Which Ybarra Killed Henderson Found—The Prisoner Held Over to Answer Before the Superior Court for Murder.

The preliminary examination of Gregorio Ybarra for the murder of Ben Henderson on the 3d inst, was held before Justice Critchfield Monday. The defendant was held to answer without bonds.

No facts additional to those published in the last issue of THE PRESS were developed. Ybarra still strenuously denies the commission of the crime, and expressed surprise that he had been arrested and placed in jail for a murder of which he was perfectly innocent.

It will be remembered that at the time Ybarra was arrested the weapon with which he was known to have been armed at the time of the homicide could not be found.

THE PRESS intimated at the time that the knife with which Henderson had been killed had no doubt been hidden in the cabin in which Ybarra was concealed at the time of his arrest. And so it proved.

Miss Jessie Booth, a member of the family of Thomas Howard, found the knife in the cabin a day or so after the crime was committed. The weapon, a thin, sharp-pointed butcherknife, had been concealed in the outhouse occupied by Ybarra, and was corroded with blood stains. When the attention of the prisoner was called to the fact that the deadly weapon had been found he became greatly excited, but still insisted on complete ignorance regarding the tragedy.

Larry Brennan and Newton Cleveland, formerly attendants at the local asylum, stated that Ybarra had been an inmate of that institution a year or so ago. Whether this be true, or simply a case of mistaken identity, Ybarra nevertheless recognized the two gentlemen when they called on him at the jail.

The records of the local court contain no entry regarding Ybarra's commitment on a charge of insanity, so if he were really in the asylum it must have been by transfer from some other state institution.

PANHANDLERS ENTERTAINED.

An Enjoyable Whist Party Given in Their Honor.

Friday evening last Mrs. J. R. Ely entertained the members of the Panhandle social and their ladies at the residence of B. E. Handy in this city. Progressive whist was the main feature of the evening's entertainment, five tables being used.

A most delightful evening was spent in this very fascinating game, and it was approaching 1 o'clock before the young people saw fit to return home. At midnight an elegant supper was served by the charming hostess, and the way the good things disappeared, convinced her that her guests felt that "it was good to be there."

The first prizes were awarded to Miss Eva Hirsch, a Japanese tea pot, and A. L. Gibson, a memorandum book. The booby prizes were awarded to Miss Clara Fine, a cigar-holder, and Maurice Hirsch, a little China doll.

Those who participated in the evening's amusement were: Mmes J. R. Ely and T. M. Cleland, Misses Mamie Richardson, Eva and Mabel Hirsch, May Wyckoff, Jessie Handy, Clara and Pearl Fine, Carrie Ganter, Sudie Gibson, Messrs B. E. Handy, T. M. Cleland, A. L. Gibson, Bert Cleland, L. H. Handy, Ernest Fine, Maurice Hirsch, Clint, Albert, Clarence and Carl Ganter. SEE?

MURDER AT COVELO.

Dick Bell Shoots Thomas Steele in the Back.

COVELO, February 8.—This morning Dick Bell, alias Deaf Dick, an Indian, and Thomas Steele, a halfbreed, had trouble in regard to a sack of barley. They quickly came to blows. Steele knocked Deaf Dick down and bruised him badly.

The affray occurred at Steele's house. Steele left Deaf Dick on the floor and started to go into another room. After being left to himself Deaf Dick drew his pistol and shot Steele in the back.

It was a fatal shot. Steele died in a few minutes. The officers have gone after Deaf Dick. There probably will be no trouble in arresting him. N. B.

Do You Want to Stop Drinking?

Inquired a young gentleman of a friend who had long been addicted to the liquor habit. "I certainly do," replied his friend. "Why do you ask?" "Because, if you do why don't you stop?" "That's easier said than done," responded the other. "I have tried time and again, but it's no go. I can't withstand the tempation. It's utterly impossible for me to resist. I don't possess the will power you did when you quit." "There was no exhibition of will power on my part," replied the other. "I found it as useless as yourself to resist the temptation; but I wanted to stop, so I experimented with the Fittz Alcohol Cure. It's easy to take; it builds up the system, and after the first five days the desire all leaves you. Consult Dr. G. W. Stout."

THE REDWOOD BELT.

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF A WONDERFUL REGION.

The Land of Big Trees and Romantic Landscapes—Fertile Fields and Perennial Springs—Mendocino County Pictured by an Artist.

Mendocino county extends along the western margin of California, from north latitude 38 degrees 32 minutes to 39 degrees 63 minutes, a distance of about eighty-five miles. A spur from the coast range runs the entire length of the county, in an irregular direction, from southeast to northwest. The foothills of this range at the northern boundary of the county approach quite near to the ocean, while midway of its length, the interval between the sea and the hills is very much greater.

This range of hills, for they cannot be dignified by the name of mountains, form the divide separating the waters that empty into the ocean through the Russian river in Sonoma county from all the waters falling upon their western slope; these find their way to the sea through several short streams which, though called rivers, are hardly worthy of the appellation, none of them being more than fifty miles in length, and in summer carrying only a small quantity of water, though in the rainy season a few of them discharge a torrent, which makes itself apparent by its turbid and discolored quality, far out at sea. A rise of eighteen or twenty feet in some of these rivers, as the result of a severe storm, is not an unusual occurrence; and at such times the Gualala, the Navarro, and the Big rivers are likely to cause considerable damage to the railroads and other improvements upon their banks.

The coast, viewed either from the land or sea, says Wood and Iron, presents an ever-varying and picturesque appearance, being precipitous and irregular, with many bold headlands jutting out into the ocean, making natural break-waters and numerous small coves, especially at the mouths of the different creeks and rivers; affording facilities for the shipment of lumber, the manufacture of which is the great industry of this western section of the county. Most of these shipping points are of limited depth and area; and during the winter months are exposed to the force of the prevailing winds, and consequently are not free from danger to vessels at anchor during the storms. Still, the employment in late years of steam vessels in place of the old-time sailing craft has very much lessened the risk, and loss from shipwreck seldom occurs.

Beginning at the extreme southern boundary of the county, we have the Gualala river, and going north cross in turn the Garcia river, Greenwood creek, Navarro river, Salmon creek, Albion river, Little river, Big river, Caspar creek, Noyo river, Ten-mile river, Cottoneva creek and Usal river. All these streams have shipping facilities at their entrances to the ocean; but with the exception of the Noyo river and Big river, at the mouth of which last is the village of Mendocino, never have shipped cargoes in large vessels for foreign ports. Both of these last named places are rated by the underwriters as secure from May to November for vessels of any tonnage.

The action of the sea has produced strange and interesting effects all along the coast. Isolated rocks stand out in the ocean, wholly detached from the shore, with openings through them from side to side. In one instance a passage exists from the open sea entirely under a point of land, through which a boat can pass; and in another place is a cave so large and deep that a schooner of nearly a hundred tons, which had parted her chains during a storm, was swept into it entirely out of sight, and only reappeared in fragments, as the hull was ground to pieces by the action of the waves.

The climate on the immediate coast is cool, being modified by the winds which blow from the northwest almost continuously from June to October; and while these fresh sea breezes are too bracing for those who are inclined to bronchial or pulmonary troubles, they add materially to the comfort and efficiency of all who are engaged in any active occupation; and their accompanying nightly fog seems to keep the grass green nearly all summer. While such is the climate on the coast, a few miles back it is very different; and a drive of three or four hours takes one out of the reach of the sea brreeze and in a temperature where all the effects of a hammam bath can be had at the cost of a very moderate degree of exercise.

As before stated, the chief, in fact the only industry of this division of the county is lumbering; and nearly the entire product of the mills is redwood; far through them are some scattering trees of Douglas spruce, commonly called Oregon pine, and a liberal amount of tanbark oak, the great mass of the luxuriant forest which covers the western slope of the county is composed of that king of trees, the Sequoia sempervirens, known in commerce as California redwood, to be found nowhere outside of the state of California.

This redwood belt extends continuously from the southern to the northern limits of the county, and in the broadest part is nearly thirty miles wide, with an average width of but little more than twelve miles, and an area of about 640,000 acres. This timber, as said, is found only in California, and in this state is restricted to Mendocino county and to her sister county of Humboldt, adjoining on the north; for though the forest extends from Humboldt northward into Del Norte county, the area in that locality is limited, and its addition to the quantity of the other two counties is proportionally very small, so that virtually Mendocino and Humboldt counties contain the entire stock of this valuable timber.

While the acreage of the redwood forest is somewhat greater in Mendocino than in Humboldt county, the average yield per acre of lumber in the latter largely exceeds that of the former; and some forty-acre tracts in each county contain so many million feet of lumber that the statement of it here would most likely be attributed to an altogether too vivid imagination. The first mill erected in the county was a water-power mill, built on the Albion, by Captain William Richardson, one of the early settlers when California was still a Mexican province. He built this mill in 1851, but it was of small capacity, and never made much lumber. The next mill was erected in 1852 at Mendocino. It was a gang mill, with two sash saws to stock up for the gang, and was operated night and day, cutting on an average sixty thousand feet in twenty-four hours. The settlement at Mendocino was really the first made on the coast of the county, and it has always retained its place in the front rank.

After 1854 mills were built in rapid succession, until their capacity (in connection with the mills in Humboldt county) for producing lumber was very much greater than the demand. This state of things induced a competition, which proves harmful in the highest degree, until, for self-preservation, mill-owners have been compelled to adopt a policy of co-operation instead of the destructive one of competition, which had so long influenced their actions. While this is a great advance over the former conditions, it is the opinion of many well qualified to judge that no adequate price for redwood stumpage will be obtained until the entire holdings, both in Humboldt and Mendocino, are concentrated under one control, and the present wasteful and costly plan of production replaced by an economical administration of the business.

Such an administration would dispense with fully one-half of the present force of superintendents, engineers, foremen, and high-priced men generally by cutting at say ten mills, running full time, what is now produced at twenty or more; and supervising in one office in San Francisco all the details connected with selling the lumber, which as now managed requires the maintenance of nearly as many expensive officers as there are mills in operation.

When this day comes, as come it must unless the old spirit of enterprise and money-making is dead, and the race of men who know a good thing when they see it has become extinct, then, and not till then, will the coast of Mendocino county see the prosperity to which her natural advantages and her abundant facilities entitle it.

A foul breath is one of the greatest afflictions that a man or woman can have. An affliction not only to themselves, but to those with whom they come in contact. A foul breath is a great discourager of affection. It would probably be more so if people only realized just what bad breath means. Bad breath is one of the symptoms of constipation. Some of the other symptoms are sour stomach, loss of appetite, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, heartburn and distress after eating. These things mean indigestion. They lead to dyspepia and worse things. They all start with constipation, and constipation is inexcusable because it can be cured—cured easily, quickly and permanently, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They give to nature just the little help that she needs. There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heartburn," or any of the rest of the nightmare breeding brood, these little "Pellets" will not cure. Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page common sense medical adviser, illustrated.

Bank Robber Trap.

The latest device for bringing to naught the ill directed energy of the thief who presents a pistol to the head of bank officials in broad daylight and during business hours is reported from the west. This species of criminal audacity is getting to be painfully common of late, the usual plan being for the bandit to select an opportune moment, when lots of money is in sight, and rush up to the window, thrust his pistol through the cashier's opening and demand the funds on pain of instant death in case of a refusal. The system devised for trapping this species of the gentry consists of a drop fitted in the floor in front of the pay window and so nicely adjusted as to be unnoticed except upon close examination. The dropping of the trap is effected by a knob on the inside and readily accessible to the cashier. Directly beneath the drop a shoot extends downward about six feet and converging to a point at the bottom. The sides of this shoot are lined with spikes, which project inward and downward. When Mr. Robber steps to the window and makes his demand, the cashier grabs the money with one hand, as if to deliver it, says, "All right, here you are," and with the other turns the knob that unlatches the drop, when "down goes McGinty," wedged into the shoot between the spikes, from which no amount of cursing will extricate him, and the bank partition, being bulletproof, if he chooses to shoot, it only adds to the alarm already given by the bank's officials, which brings the police to bag the game so effectually caught.—New Ideas.

Little Courtesy Among Travelers.

"I am sorry to have to say it," remarked a sleeping car conductor, "but somehow—and I have no explanation for it—men traveling are not as courteous and accommodating to lady travelers as they should be. The men who ask for all kinds of accommodations, when they have their wives, sisters or female relatives traveling with them—and they never fail then to claim everything in sight—are in many cases the men who decline to give similar favors to other lady passengers. As a matter of fact the upper berths in a sleeping car are the best, the best ventilated, and I think experience has shown the safest in cases of wreck. Still, the demand is nearly always for the lower berths, because it is easier to get into them. This is particularly so with lady travelers. In my last half dozen trips from and back to this city I have had more than the usual percentage of lady passengers, and I have not succeeded in one case in getting any of the men travelers to surrender a lower berth for an upper berth. The men, being more experienced, secured the lower berths and refused to give them up."—Washington Star.

A Bird That Shaves Itself.

The lammergeyer, or bearded vulture, found throughout the whole mountain chains of the old world, actually shaves himself. The expert barber, who has for his customers crusty millionaires, could not ply the keen edged razor to the stubby beard of his particular patron more deftly than the monarch of the mountain tops prunes his own bristly beard.

The head of the vulture is clothed with feathers, and from the sides of the under mandible proceeds a row of black bristles. From this peculiar projection of feathers the bird derives his name. A layer of similar bristles begins at the eye and covers the nostrils, forming a fleecy mustache.

With his strong and sharp claws, which act as the razor, he begins to trim his fibrous whiskers with great care and dexterity. He does this with great regularity, and soon the downy beard and mustache give way to a full growth of bristly feathers.—San Francisco Examiner.

All That Was Lacking.

He had been away on a business trip for quite a long time and had brought his wife a handsome fan on his return.

"It's just perfectly lovely, Harry," she said. "It's the daintiest and most beautiful fan I ever saw."

"I'm glad you like it," he returned, with evident gratification.

"How could I help liking anything so pretty?" she asked, and then she added, with a sigh, "I only wish I could carry it some time."

"Why can't you?" he demanded.

"No gown to go with it," she answered promptly. "There ought to be a gown to match, or at least one that wouldn't look shabby beside it, if"—

She got the gown. He kicked himself for two days, and ever thereafter bought fans to match what she already had.—Chicago Post.

Gus Zacharini's Luck.

Gus Zacharini of Covelo went down to San Francisco on a trip the other day—the first time he had been away from Round valley in two years. Gus purchased a pair of pants at the Cerf bankrupt sale, to be used on dress parade on Market street. When Gus got as far down as Tiburon he discovered that he had left a gold horseshoe studded with diamonds in the garments he had discarded while in this city. He telegraphed up, but his ornament could not be found. When he came back he went to the Cerf store and there found his diamond horseshoe in the watch pocket of his old pants. Gus was far happier than though he had stumbled on a placer claim.

J. C. Cook's 76th Anniversary.

Wednesday evening there was quite a pleasant assemblage at the Ukiah high school in the general assembly room, it being the seventy-sixth anniversary of the birth of J. C. Cook, janitor of the building. The teachers and all the students met, and Joseph Patton, after a few brief and very complimentary remarks, brought out and presented to the janitor, in the name and in behalf of the local high school, a fine suit of clothes. The janitor was so taken aback that he could offer but a few words in praise of the teachers and students in attendance. Mr. Cook has been janitor of the school since its establishment.

Joseph P. Stanley contemplates making many improvements on his Calpella hacienda during the present year. He purposes the construction of a modern winery with a capacity of between 15,000 and 20,000 gallons. In addition to the winery a still will be constructed for the manufacture of brandy with which the wine is to be fortified. Mr. Stanley has now 16 acres of bearing grapevines, but it is his intention to put out 40 or 50 acres more in vines. Mr. Stanley is an up-to-date wine-grower, and it is his intention to inaugurate a new era in viticultural pursuits in this county.

There is sorrow in the family of a widower of this city. He sent to Germany some time since for a new wife. The lady arrived last week and inspected the consignee. He did not come up to her expectations, so she refused him. The lady is now open for an engagement. She offers as an inducement the fact that she is provided with a stock of clothes which will last for five years to come.

Smallpox has appeared among Chinese in quarantine at Diamond point in the Puget sound. They had been in quarantine two weeks and would have been liberated during the day on which the first case developed. There are some fifty people held, two weeks from the Orient. A Funny Eagle.

A Russian grand duke, one of the czar's predecessors, was once the guest of a German prince. It was early in the century. In Russia the imperial double headed eagle is to be seen everywhere and on everything throughout the empire, stamped, painted, embroidered or sculptured. At that period the education of grand dukes was somewhat limited. This grand duke went out shooting in Germany and, among other things, shot a large bird. He asked an experienced huntsman who accompanied him what the bird was. "An eagle, your highness," was the answer. The grand duke turned on him in an irritated way. "How can it be an eagle," he asked, "when it has only one head?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Heliotrope.

The heliotrope is an emblem of devotion. This idea was probably suggested by the curious habit presented by this flower of turning its face toward the sun. Moore's poetical lines about the sunflower turning on her god where he sets the same look that she turned when he rose is not founded on fact. The sunflower is not a heliotrope and does not turn to face the sun.

Old School Politeness.

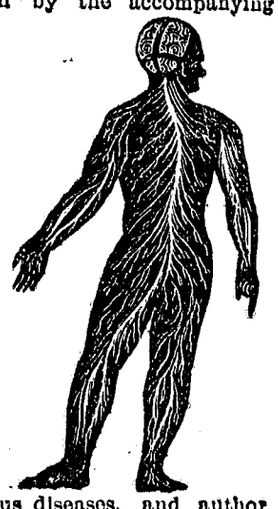
"Uncle Simon, what is old fashioned politeness?"

"It is a way people used to have of asking a man about his health and then listening until he got through replying."—Chicago Record.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.



Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

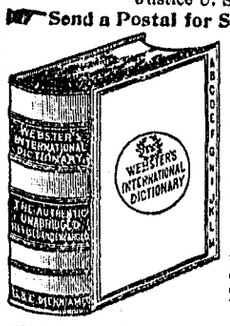
☞Send a Postal for Specimen Pages, etc.



Successor of the "Unabridged."

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State Supreme Courts, and of nearly all the Schoolbooks.

THE BEST FOR EVERYBODY BECAUSE

It is easy to find the word wanted.
It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation.
It is easy to trace the growth of a word.
It is easy to learn what a word means.

The Detroit Free Press says:—
The Unabridged has long been the standard among those making constant use of a dictionary. The International is our old friend and stand-by revised and expanded to meet the demands of our growing language and advancing civilization. The whole has been made to reflect the scientific thought of the day, and the latest and best usages of the language that now encircles the globe.—Nov. 11, 1895.

The Chicago Times-Herald says:—
Webster's International Dictionary in its present form is absolute authority as to orthography, pronunciation, etymology, and definition. From all quarters comes appeal. It is the recognized lexicon of the English speaking race.—Feb. 11, 1896.
